Golden Wedding At Beaver Mines

The most enjoyable evening ever given in Beaver Mines was Friday night, March 13th, the occasion being the celebration of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. William McCulloch of this town, and late of Coleman.

Owing to the popularity of the old couple, about 200 guests gathered at the Pioneer hall for the celebration.

The Rev. Hamilton, of Beaver Mines, performed the marriage ceremony, after which John G. Tronter, who was seated to the chair, introduced the aged couple to the guests in a few appropriate remarks, in part as follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen—You have asked me to take the chair on this occasion. While I consider it a great honor, as well as a privilege, I am sure there are many of you in the hall much better qualified than your humble servant.

We have met here this evening to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. William McCulloch, who are so well known to you that they are probably the most highly respected couple in Alberta today.

It gives me great pleasure to introduce to you the honored guests, Mr. and Mrs. McCulloch, and in their name to extend to you all a most hearty welcome. (Cheers.) I am pleased to see so many of you here, and to have the pleasure of meeting many old friends, and making acquaintance with others. Indeed, it is the privilege of a lifetime to have an invitation to attend a golden wedding. I will not tire you with words, as there is such a good "head" ahead of us tonight, but before closing allow me to give you a little resume of the life of our guests of honor.

Mr. McCulloch was in his twenty-two years of age, was born in Scotland. He was one of the first miners' leaders, having worked with Hector McDonald and others in organizing the miners' union of Scotland. At that time he was also a pioneer in the co-operative movement, having been chairman of the Larbert Co-operative Society, one of the first co-operative organizations. As you all know "what co-operation has done for your fellow man, I think you will admit that Mr. McCulloch's connection with the co-operative movement is sufficient to call for a monument to our noble friend here tonight. Mr. McCulloch has also been a leading light in athletics, and a very talented musician. (Cheers.)

Mrs. McCulloch also hails from Scotland, and is over seventy years of age. She is one of the most genial and kind-hearted old ladies ever known and is known to everybody as "Grandma McCulloch." Besides this she is a noted nurse and has probably been present at some birth, thus any medical doctor in Alberta. The old lady is known from Land's End to Johnnie Groat's house. (Cheers.)

Mr. and Mrs. McCulloch were married fifty years ago today. From this union a family of seven sons and five daughters have risen. From these twenty-one grand children have come, and from them two great grand children, making a total of thirty-five direct descendants from the old couple. In the face of this figure, it is then a person who will say that marriage is a failure? I hardly think so. You young folks please sit up and take notice. (Wild cheers.)

Our honored guests have both reached the allotted span of life, but anyone who looks at them tonight will admit that they are both good for at least another seventy years. This alone shows that they must have lived a clean and honorable life, carrying with them the greatest blessing of God, "good health and prosperity." (Cheers.)

Our old friends here, our guests of honor, are still working for their living. While it is a great credit to these old people to be able to support themselves, I consider it a disgrace to do so, and think that they should have to do so. There ought to be an old-age fund to provide a

Such is the amount of claim of James Robert Irwin, for so-called wrongful dismissal from the position of chief of police of the Town of Blairmore.

Messrs. McDonald, McKenzie & Co., of Melchod, have been retained by Mr. Irwin, while H. H. Roberts of Coleman, is his local representative.

The result of the proceedings will be interesting to all who have watched the doings of the 1913 town council.

It is not known yet as to whether the town will consider it worth while employing the services of a solicitor.

Annual Meeting of Central Baptist Church

The annual meeting of Central Baptist Church was held on Monday evening, March 16th. The church was occupied by the pastor, Rev. J. F. Hunter. Reports were given by the various departments, which all proved to be most satisfactory.

The secretary's report showed that there had been three baptisms during the year, and one had joined the church by letter. The present roll of resident members is 30, and non-residents 12.

The treasurer's report showed the amount of receipts from subscriptions to be $219.00, and receipts from collections $317.55, making a total of receipts for the year $536.55. The sum of $71.25 had been raised during the past year for missions. The report was altogether very encouraging.

There were several other reports, which included that of the Sunday school superintendent, showing that the attendance at the school now numbered about 60 boys and

The president of the Baptist Young People's Union also gave an excellent report, which showed that the membership roll had not decreased.

All the reports were very hopeful and encouraging, and altogether the meeting was a great success.

The election of officers for the year resulted as follows: Board of Deacons—J. W. Gresham, F. M. Pinkney, J. J. Thomas (re-elected).

Treasurer—Mrs. F. M. Pinkney. Secretary—J. B. Harner (re-elected). Superintendent of Sunday School—Alex. McLean (re-elected).

Assistant Superintendent—J. B. Harner. Secretary-Treasurer of Sunday School—Miss A. Patton.

After the meeting the ladies of the church provided a delightful repast, which was heartily partaken of by all present. The meeting adjourned at 11 p.m.

It is noted that they have contributed largely to the geological collections. Mr. Ferrier has also been kind enough to take to the eastern States and personally collect for Dr. Allan excellent and representative material in minerals, rocks and ore.

Some of the material has arrived and much is yet to come. Among the recent additions to the geological museum might be mentioned an extensive suite of Canadian minerals from the Geological Survey of Ottawa; some excellent mineral specimens from Dr. Adams and Mr. Graham of McGill University, and rare and valuable ones from the mining department of the same institution. These include a specimen of the famous Bangor rock of South Africa, and some $1800 to the ton in gold, as well as ores and minerals from the Lake Superior district, collected by Mr. A. C. Campbell, a mining engineer of Ottawa. A box of rocks and minerals has just been received from Prof. G. H. Warren of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and another member of the department of geology in the same institution and a friend of Dr. Allan has just shipped two

Building a Geological Museum Collection

The department of geology of the University of Alberta has been organized only a year and a half and yet it already possesses collections which equal those of many larger and older universities.

A large part of the mineral, rock, fossil and ore collections have been presented to the department by private individuals, other universities, institutions and mining companies. The greatest credit and appreciation is due to Mr. W. F. Ferrier, of Toronto, a close friend of the University of Alberta, who has not only given a large suite of minerals from his own extensive collection, but has interested many individuals and institutions throughout Eastern Canada and the United States in the university to the

What Good Roads Mean to Canada

The earliest roads about which anything is known are those of ancient Rome. The first great road on record in the Via Appia, a great way, which was supposed to have been built in 312 B.C. The chief aim of the road makers in those days was to have their roads laid out in a straight line between two places. The old roads that the Romans built are many of them still in use, and in some cases new roads have been built on the old foundations. The old Roman road of England, such as Watling Street and Portsmouth Road, are as good today as countries. Many of the modern roads of Great Britain, for instance the Victoria Embankment, constructed in recent years, have swallowed up millions of dollars, and it is certainly surprising that they have not swallowed up more than money, as they are and always will be a failure owing to their not having proper foundation work in the beginning.

We have advanced in many ways since the days of Julius Caesar. We have telephones, flying machines and steamships, and by no means least we have wireless thatography, which has proved so efficient in recent disasters. But our skill in these things today is not more remarkable than the skill of the ancient Romans in road-making. Of all people in the world the Romans took the most care in the construction of their roads.

In substance Kratchenko's story relieves Hagel and Westlake of all blame for the escape and points to Buxton as the chief actor in the phase of the prison drama, and held as an active assassin. Kratchenko acquits Westlake, who is charged with harboring him after his escape, by saying that it was Buxton who was to meet him at the Bursie block, and when he found a strange man there he held him up and kept him practically a prisoner. This man was Westlake.

Throughout his several hours of examination Kratchenko's cross-examination of Buxton stuck to his story in a most ingenious manner, and related the exciting incidents in a most plausible manner.</

Candidates Must

Declare Themselves

Every candidate who offers himself for election to the provincial legislature at the next election will be asked by the Temperance and Moral Reform League whether he is in favor of total prohibition for the province of Alberta, and whether he will use all influence to secure the abolition of the traffic in this province. Workers from the ranks of the league will visit every constituency in the province at election time and get signatures to a pledge list, to which the voters will be asked to support only those candidates who declare themselves in favor of the prohibition law. The answers of the different candidates on the stand they take will be sent for publication to every paper in the province.

50,000 Bible Class Men in Parade

This is one of the features of the fourteenth convention of the International Sunday School Association to be held in Chicago, June 23 to 30, 1914. The fifty thousand men will all be bible students. Tens of thousands of men are to go into Chicago for the parade. The Alberta delegation will be in the line. This parade is to be the greatest testimony to the dynamic fallacies of the bible the world has ever witnessed. It will also celebrate reaching the goal set before the International adult bible class committee, namely, 50,000 organized adult bible classes in America. These classes represent an army of over two million men and women.

Alberta's share of the fifty thousand classes is at least one hundred and fifty classes. There are ninety-five classes now enrolled in the office of the Alberta Sunday School Association, Calgary, and the general secretary, F. E. Werry, has sent out an appeal to all parts of the province asking for the enrollment of organized adult bible classes. All that is required to be numbered with the fifty thousand classes in America is to apply to Mr. Werry for an international certificate of recognition, but without this certificate a class cannot be counted.
